

Talk by Kunal Balhara

Today's talk was presented by Kunal Balhara, student convenor(dept of Zoology) on the topic "life skills, leadership and caring for others...".

He started his talk mentioning about Tony Wagner (Founder- Harvard Innovation Lab) and his research regarding missing Leadership & Survival Skills even in the best students at Harvard.

He mentioned that "Skills Gap" refers to the missing Personality traits and Characteristics which makes an individual a Winner in life...few of these skills are complex problem solving, critical thinking, creativity, judgement and problem solving.

He also discussed his learnings and experiences of the meeting which he had with the eminent Indian personalities, Dr A P J Abdul Kalam , Kiran Bedi , etc. during few projects organised by skills for life foundation.

Kunal later discussed the importance of contributing to the society to human resource development.

Social service towards underprivileged or orphaned children is way to give them a chance to deserve.

Any trait that is identified at an early age can be enhanced, moulded, and honed to be taken to its peak. Letting them prove that they are no less in this world and any economic static it just a small barrier one can cross with cheer hard work and determination is a must .

He also told about various projects like buddy project being undertaken and need the talk with a nice quote "I am only one, but I am one. I cannot do everything, but I can do something. And I will not let what I cannot do interfere with what I can do." By Edward Everett Hale.
